In the center of our city you can see the old building. It's the Gulliver puppet theatre. The theatre was opened in 1948. One of the first premieres was the play "Scarlet flower". The first performances were traditionally screen, with cane dolls.

In October 1984, Gulliver moved to the old building of the concert hall. The theater has its own stage.

The theatre received its modern name "Gulliver" in 1976.

In 1975 graduates of the Leningrad Institute of theatre, music and cinematography with Director M. Khusid came to Kurgan. Young people have changed the life of the puppet theater, trying to create a professional theater.

Spotlight on Kurgan

What to see tourists in Kurgan?

Fire Tower

Modern Kurgan grew out of a small peasant settlement founded on the banks of the Tobol River in 1679. By the beginning of the 18th century. Its importance has increased, as the settlement was surrounded by strong walls, turning it into a fortress, designed to protect from the raids of the nomads of the land of the Southern Urals. In the middle of the XIX century. Kurgan buildings were mostly wooden. Fires occurred quite often and caused significant damage. Therefore, when in 1877 the city government received a proposal to build a fire tower, from the viewing terrace of which most of the city would be visible, the money was found very quickly, and the construction was completed as soon as possible. Since then, the 27-meter high hexagon tower with a dome topped with an elegant weather vane has become not only a reliable
